Hiya -

One more thing that came up in our 'planning n prep' meeting on Friday (Eli, Dave and I) was a question regarding whether or not you are still envisioning delivering some sort of presentation before the EPA in January(?) As I recall you told me it would have something to do with how this seemingly straightforward cleanup became an urban nightmare of longevity and complexity.
Is that still in the offing?

Unless I hear from you otherwise I'll try calling tomorrow. Sorry I didn't connect today - I did try to call (as you know) but it was later than I had originally planned. I suddenly have this rather extensive list of tasks resulting from Friday's meeting and there is a deadline on their completion complicated further by developing travel plans, so I got hoodwinked by it all today.

Talk with you soon -
Aaron
